CHICAGO, ILL , June 14 .- The most remarkable feature of the situation vesterfiring commenced near the southwest day and throughout the evening was the corner of the courthouse on the public strong undercurrent for Blaine. No matter that he had written two letters declining to be a candidate under any cireach other Terrell killed the Rainses cumstances, and no matter even if Chairwere many around the political headquarters, men from all points of the country, who still expected that Bisine was the coming man. They quoted his speeches in which he said no man had a right to refuse the call of his country if it came to him with orgency and unanimity, and concluded that Bisine would not be the first to violate his own pricci ples. None of the delegates or men of prominence would commit themselves publicly on the subject, but the talk continued, nevertheless. GRESHAM'S BOOM There was greater activity at the Gresham headquarters to-day than there was at any of the other candidates. The register was kept open and every Gresham man who dropped in put down his name. A good round number were from Isdisna.
